Welcome to FuMPFest 2019!

Thank you for supporting comedy-music and our self-indulgent delusions of grandeur that have morphed into FuMPFest!

We have an awesome weekend of comedy, music, and general stupidity lined up for you, with a dozen performances, our guest of honor The Doubleclicks, Dumb Parody Ideas, Dementia Smackdown Wrestling, The FuMP Game Show, and more! If you are interested in possibly being a contestant in the game show pick up an application at Registration, fill it out, and return it to Table 27 before the dinner break on Saturday.

If you'd like to enter the Dumb Parody Ideas contest just show up and be ready to go! We'll be taking contestants from the audience as well as from the guests. Just remember, keep it short. Generally we like the contestants to stick to one verse and one chorus.

And if you just want to sit back and watch other people embarrass themselves that's totally fine too! Just remember to have fun and tile honey mustard!

Guest of Honor: The Doubleclicks

The Doubleclicks (Laser Malena-Webber and Aubrey Turner) are a Portland & LA-based musical duo who mix comedy, messages and geek culture in charming, catchy songs. Since debuting with a weekly YouTube songwriting project in 2011, the Doubleclicks have carved out a space in geek and songwriting communities with their message of empowerment and their penchant for involving their community of listeners in the creation of their music and videos. The Doubleclicks' 2012 album Lasers and Feelings and 2015 album President Snakes hit the Billboard charts in comedy.

The Doubleclicks tour the country, playing everywhere from music venues to comedy clubs, game stores, and at events like San Diego Comic-Con, PAX, JoCoCruise and more. The band's loyal fanbase frequently participates in their music videos and has elevated the band by funding two albums via Kickstarter projects raising a total of more than $135,000. The Doubleclicks have written theme songs and created commercials for popular game brands Cards Against Humanity and Fluxx, for a Nerdist partnership with Totinos, and for many podcasts and web series.

Performing Artists

Tim Cavanagh - Tim Cavanagh is a local Chicago comic who has appeared on Showtime, WGN, and Comedy Central. He is best known to Dr. Demento fans for his classic songs “I Wanna Kiss Her” and “99 Dead Baboons.” Tim routinely performs at comedy clubs, concert halls, and corporate gigs and is a regular on The Bob and Tom Show.

Clearly Guilty - There is only one word that describes Clearly Guilty’s music: Nerdy. And Purdy. Two words. There are only TWO words that describe Clearly Guilty’s music: Nerdy and Purdy. And Dirty. Three words. Clearly Guilty: Nerdy, Purdy, and Dirty. (Also Geeky, Funny, Science-y, Absurd, Delightfully Inappropriate, and Rutabaga)

Carrie Dahlby - Carrie Dahlby is a classically trained opera singer from the Chicago area who lends her talents to many of the other FuMP artists for their own music. Carrie has released three studio albums and is best known for her songs about being a parent.

Earlier this year Carrie was Music Guest of Honor status at Capricon.

Robbie Ellis - Robbie Ellis is an overeducated wordy piano comedian. He performs regularly at The Paper Machete in Chicago, he was the host of WFMT’s Classical Cabaret, and he’s played the New York Funny Songs Festival. The Library Bards - The Library Bards are a nerd parody band consisting of Bonnie Gordon (ABC's The Quest, left) and Xander Jeaneret (TBS' King of the Nerds, right). They take popular songs and transform them into the nerdy versions they should have been in the first place! Their new album BomBARDED was is now available.

Lauren Mayer - Lauren began playing the piano at age 3 and discovered her penchant for writing comedy songs shortly thereafter. Her early influences included Alan Sherman, Dr. Demento, and Tom Lehrer. ## A FEVER DREAM OF THE TRUMP YEARS

A fast-paced, deliciously irreverent and deliriously immersive political satire, BS de Résistance follows the story of a Texas mom and her precocious four-year-old son as they are unwittingly drawn into the shadowy struggle between the Deep State and its enemies. And there's a song in every episode! New episodes drop on the 5th, 15th and 25th of each month.

"BS de Résistance is very funny, very on-target, and extremely well written, acted, and produced...[A] worthy successor to [the] tradition [of] Stan Freberg, The Goon Show, Bob & Ray, The Firesign Theatre, Monty Python, and the Credibility Gap." - Ken Jones, KBOO-FM
